Six T-enc motion-type clusters in the raw signal — three random member windows each from the dominant source (opacity separates the windows)

